2. Short Letter of Motivation in German or English (1-2 pages) Why exactly do you want to study at this university? How do the courses fit into your study program?	<input type="checkbox"/>
3. Curriculum Vitae in Tabular Form	<input type="checkbox"/>
4. Enrollment Certificate	<input type="checkbox"/>
5. Learning Agreement for Your First Choice Only Do not send anything to your favorite host university. Only fill out the form " learning agreement " (pp. 1-2) and add it to your application.	<input type="checkbox"/>
6. Proof of your current academic status a printout from Campus Management, for MSc students: copy of your bachelor's degree certificate – uncertified	<input type="checkbox"/>
7. Proof of Language Skills The language certificate must not have been acquired more than two years prior to application, minimum level: B1 or more, depending on the host university's requirements. We ask that you seriously consider whether your language skills are sufficient to complete academic courses at your chosen partner university in the respective language. The Language Center issues language certificates following an exam. Please use the partner database to research whether you will need proof of language proficiency higher than B1 level at the host university. Even if the partner university does not specify any requirements, you have to hand in a language certificate indicating B1 proficiency for the language of instruction, which doesn't necessarily have to be the country's dominant language. If you are unable to submit your language certificate along with your application, we are usually able to extend the deadline to May or June.	<input type="checkbox"/>
